[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Washington, July 31.— Senator Chorton, democrat, from Louisiana, who will vote against the tariff bill because of the free sugar made an important denunciation of this determination to put sugar in the free list in 1913. This was the first speech from within the democratic party since it was reported to the senate."I owe to the people of my state a far higher devotion than I owe to the Democratic party. Honor and duty alike demand that I vote against this bill while it carries this provision."*Characterizing on the Democratic tariff as "Neither fish, fowl, nor herring," a measure not based on scientific principles, of either free trade or protection, and declaring it will not benefit the consumer, because it will injure if not destroy the producer, Senator Gronna, progressive Senator of North Dakota, attacked the measure in the tariff discussion in the Senate today.Unjust to Farmers."The great industry of agriculture is a again a subject of an unjust onslaught and discrimination. I call your attention to the fact that in my state alone we have 1,000,000 raised more than 142,000,000 bushels of wheat with a short crop in foreign countries, under the provisions of the bill our farmers would lose in a single year more than fifteen million dollars."*Senator Gronna declared that in discriminating against the farmer the democrats found themselves in a difficult position of having two sets of realson, inconsistent with each other. "Using one or the other, on occasion might seem to demand and now they are attempting to use both at the same time." If the removal of the tariff on the farm products is going to give the consumer cheaper food, he declared, than the tariff on those products give the producer a better market and the producer is benefited by it.Where is Benefit?"On the other hand, if as has been contended the tariff on farm products is of benefit to the producer of them, it can only be because the producer does not increase the price of those products and if it does not increase the price, then where is there any excuse for stating that the removal of the tariff is going to benefit the consumer and give him cheaper food?"Discussing the countervailing duty provision in the bill on wheat and flour, Senator Gronna said, "It is of no value in so far as the farmer is concerned.""If it 'Pretends,' said the Senator, 'that by its means the retail market for the wheat will be extended, it is a mere pretense and nothing more.Regards Free Wheat."The countries which find it to their interest to maintain a duty on wheat and flour are those countries which have no wheat they want to sell us and to which it consequently makes no difference whether or not a duty were maintained on wheat and flour. It does not affect them, why they should the fact that we are willing to remove the duty on those products be any incentive to them to remove them?"*"On the other hand, countries which have wheat they wish to export in any quantity to this country, and this consideration applies especially to Canada, have no market for our wheat, they will very willingly remove their duty in return for our admission of their wheat free of duty."*FIFTEEN ARE HURT IN SUBURBAN WRECK*Picnickers Upon Return from Woodmen Picnic, Have Smashup, As One Car Crashes Into Another.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Washington, July 31.—Speaker Hull left here today for his home in Black River Falls without announcing his committee appointments. He said that when he returned here this week he had intended to announce the membership of committees immediately, so many of the members have declined to serve that it has been necessary to make a rearrangement of the membership. It now seems probable that either Assemblyman Ray L. Pevey or Assemblyman Ray J. Nye may be chosen to head the committee for forestry investigation. Both men have been members of the joint finance committee and both are greatly interested in the development of northern Wisconsin. There is considerable sentiment favoring Assemblyman A. Frederick as chairman of the vice committee, but in view of the fact that Senator Treadwell, also from the same county, has already been appointed on the committee from the Senate side, it may be necessary to leave Ray Frederick off. Senator Zephys has been appointed by the Senate on the committee to investigate occupational diseases, so no other member of this committee will be appointed from the socialist party. There are some who favor the appointment of either Assemblyman J. H. Vint or Assemblyman Minkley on the vice investigation.In all probability some of the members of the committee on labor will be chosen to serve on the committee to investigate occupational diseases.*The name of Charles H. Pfennig of Kenosha has been suggested as one of the republican members and Assemblyman Burke of Milwaukee, who lives in a large factory district, is a possibility as a democratic appointee.*As Assemblyman Bingham of Adams county was the chairman of the assembly committee on labor, but it is understood that he does not care to be considered for the appointment.*Law Made Less Drastic.*Goerner McGovern has signed the bill making less severe the statute relative to the conditions under which city officers can hold. Previous law gave this power only to individuals.*Appropriation of $300 to investigate the advisability of erecting monuments on the battlefields of Gainsville and Atlanta.*Use of the Australian ballot at town and village primaries.*Governor Signs Walsh Bill.*The Walsh bill aimed at the "installment house sharks" is now in effect. Governor McGovern signed the measure Tuesday. The law provides that all contracts for the sale of furniture or other effects made on the condition that the title to the property shall be held by the seller until the articles have been paid for shall count as a conditional sales when 50 percent of the purchase price has been paid. Such contracts thereafter become chattel mortgages. Mr. Walsh claims that many furniture men took the goods before the owner had completed his payments and sold the articles. His measure is to put an end to this practice.*The governor has also signed the board of health bill increasing the amount of that board and giving it an annual appropriation of $40,000 to carry out the additional duties imposed upon it. The state is to be divided into five sanitary districts over each of which shall be a deputy health officer. Under the new law special attention is to be given to the eradication of tuberculosis. Executive approval has also been given to the bill appropriating $23,900 for carrying on the work of the geological and natural history survey. A part of this amount will be used in making a complete soil survey of lands within the state forestry reserve.*Laws Book Form.*The laws enacted at this session of the legislature will be published in book form in about two months, according to information given out by the reviser of statute. It is estimated that the new statutes containing all of the laws in force in Wisconsin will be published in at least three months.*A copy of both publications will be sent to every member of the legislature.*May Approve Factory Segregation.*The Senator Burke bill providing that the common councils in cities over 20,000 population may segregate a portion of their territory that shall be used for factory purposes was sent to the governor today. He has already signed a measure of a similar nature applicable to the city of Milwaukee.*Court to Close.*The county court and register in probate's office will be closed during the month of August except the hour between one-thirty and two-thirty every afternoon except Saturday.*Returns to Home.*Edith Landers, who was confined in the county jail yesterday, was released last night and accompanied her father home. ## BOGS FROM YAHARA CAUSE TROUBLE HERE

Clog Up Screens Protecting Turbines at Powerhouse of Janesville Electric Company.

Floating bogs and long grass loosened by the breaking up of the jans on the Yahara river are floating into and down the Rock river, causing trouble at the power house of the Janesville Electric Company in this city, clogging up the screens that protect the turbines. At the Fulton power house greater difficulty is being experienced. Some of the bogs are so heavy that it is all a man can do to pull them out with a pitch-fork. The water in the Yahara river and the four lakes which it connects has been exceptionally high during the last three weeks or more. Much land has been flooded, boat-houses set afloat, and the passing of boats and launches under bridges made impossible. Bog jams at the railway bridge in Stoughton are reported to have raised the water level, but the heavy rains and the discharge of water from the new Starkweather and Nine Springs drainage districts are contributing causes. The water is now subsiding as the result of the breaking up of the jans. The Rock river above the upper dam dropped from 7 inches over government mark at 5 o'clock this morning to 5 1/2 at 10 o'clock.

The Janesville Electric Company has had a force of men at work repairing the Fulton dam for the last three weeks. Sheet piling is being driven in front of the dam to prevent the recurrence of sapping underneath.

"If it would only wash the dishes"

A lady called yesterday to buy one of those $14.50 ranges, which we connect free of charge, and she said: "You have told so many wonderful things that this gas range will do, that I couldn't resist the temptation to have one. If it would only wash the dishes automatically, life would be one pleasant dream."

We admit that there are limitations to the work that the gas range will perform, but while it will not wash the dishes, it will give plenty of hot water quickly, and hot water and plenty of it will remove most of the distastefulness of dish-washing. Also, you do not have to keep the "stove going" while the meal is being served to keep the water boiling, because a gas stove is easily lighted and heats quickly, and the expense of fuel is stopped while the meal is being served.

We stand back of the assertion that our No. 83 Gas Range at $14.50 is the biggest range bargain in the United States.

Mr. and Mrs. Williams have returned to their home at Austin, Minn.

Two Sides to the Shield.
The Cincinnati Enquirer says that married men live longer than bachelors because it is so easy for the former to increase their pleasures. When they strike a streak of luck they feel twice as fine as bachelors because they add their wife's joy to their own. A sophistical argument, which sounds well enough as long as you suppress the fact that bad luck goes double, too.

Swedish Bridal Superstitions.
In Sweden the bridegroom has a great fear of trolls and sprites, and as an antidote against their power he sews into his clothes various strong-smelling herbs, such as garlic and rosemary. It is customary to fill the bride's pocket with bread, which she gives to the poor she meets on the way to the church, and so averts misfortune with the alms she bestows. On their return from church the bride and bridegroom visit their cow houses and farms that the cattle may thrive and multiply.

Explains a Mystery.
"It has always been my idea," remarks the Man on the Car, "that something jostled Nature's elbow when she was pouring the seed into the watermelon."

FIFTY POUNDS TO BUSHEL IS WEIGHT FOR APPLES

There Has Been No Legal Change in
The Weight of Fruit Or Vegetables.

Janesville housewives are entitled to fifty pounds of apples when they purchase a bushel of the fruit which is now coming onto the market in fairly large quantities. There has been no legal change in the pounds to the bushel for this fruit although it was rumored that the legislature had reduced the legal weight fifty to forty-four pounds. The weight for all fruits and vegetables remain the same as last year, according to State Sealer of Weights and Measures, F. P. Downing.

FORMER JANESEVILLE MAN GETS CREDIT FOR SHOWING
W. F. McGregor, in Charge of Case Experimental Works, Responsible For Showing at Winnipeg.

Credit for the showing made by the Case machinery at the international contest at Winnipeg last week, is given to a former Janesville man, W. F. McGregor, superintendent of the experimental department at the Case T. M. works. The Case company won nine out of ten gold medals in the competition.

Three of the medals were won in competition for steam engines, four in competition for internal combustion engines, and two in competition for gang plows. The contest was held under the direction of the Canadian government, with Prof. L. W. Chase of Nebraska as the engineer in charge. This is the only international contest of its kind in the world and the records established in Winnipeg are accepted as the most accurate tests of agricultural machinery.

Give Him the Hide Then.

veal.—Norfolk Virginian-Pilot.

FULLY AROUSED.

That the New York banking community is fully aroused by the insinuations of the democratic administration and their seeming distrust of the methods they have employed, is evidenced by their attitude towards the pending currency legislation. The flamboyant style of the quotations from Washington have gone home to the shaft and the Wall Street Journal takes the administration to task for permitting their utterance.

The Current Statement.

The current statement of the Secretary of the Treasury that the decline in Government 2 per cents well below par is a result of a conspiracy, coupled with the threat to expose the plot, is the latest instance of this sort. If the Secretary of the Treasury has evidenced to support his charge that New York bankers are conspiring to injure the national credit, by all means let us have it—and in detail. This is too vital a matter to be treated in a manner which can in any way suggest a "bluff." If the Secretary of the Treasury has the proof, this paper will gladly publish it and will hold no brief for the conspirators.

All the information the Wall Street Journal has been able to secure on this subject is that the holders of the 2 per cent bonds have up to date one of two alternatives in prospect under the new currency plan to wait until their twenty-year term has expired, and as much longer as the Government may see fit, or to refund them piecemeal into 3 per cents without the circulation privilege and without a demand for their use as security for Government deposits. What these 3s would be worth is anybody's guess.

The Secretary of the Treasury knows what the term "strained credit" means. If he had followed conditions in the money market the past six months, he might be somewhat slow to suggest that New York banks were deliberately trying to discredit United States Government bonds. Whatever the leading New York banks have or have not done, they are not given to playing with fire in their own barn.

But the Secretary of the Treasury has had a practical experience with Wall Street methods and somewhat intimates acquaintance with New bankers. Surely when he brings the charge of conspiracy against his former associates he believes that he has the facts to back it up. Mr. Secretary, give up the facts!

THAT VACATION.

Vacation time is always a problem. It is a question where to go and what to do. To be an exile from home during the vacation period is not imperative. True a change of scene is wholesome but it is not really essential to happiness. The man who enjoys himself under his own vine and fig-tree really has as much genuine rest as the man who migrates to a mountain camp or enjoys life by the lakes or oceanside. Janesville also offers small migrations up the river, to the surrounding lakes, taking but a day, that add zest to the vacation at home. An exchange in commenting upon the vacation at home says:

No couch so adjusts itself to individual anatomical peculiarities as the one that was acquired when house-keeping began. Besides, with neighbors as fellow recreationists there is no need to pretend to be other than you are. Attire can be suited to precise conditions of temperature and sport. Conversation is fruitful because based from the start on facts mutually understood. Exit in quest of fun and return in quest of slumber are managed with the freedom and disregard of schedule time that no hired quarters and paid servants can duplicate.

Nor is this all. A vacation at home gives many a man the first real knowledge he ever gets of what goes on in a realm that six days a week at least is usually as mysterious a region as fiction at its worst can devise. It opens eyes to the actual toil and service of women who retain domestic ideals and who live up to them. Such a vacation gives fathers a chance to get acquainted with their children in their usual environments. It makes possible careful study of the town or city in which one lives, its human factors making for uplift and its wealth for natural beauty. Instead of "Seeing America" the slogan for the home vacationist is "Seeing Janesville" or "Seeing Oldport" or whatever the name of the home town may be.

A vacation at home does another thing. It enables the person so choosing to catch up with his social obligations. Old family friends, already sensitive to neglect, can be reassured that they are not forgotten. The new neighbor across the way can be made a neighbor indeed. The lad, just come to town, whose father was your boyhood friend but whom you have forgotten to make welcome for his own and his father's sake, can be made to understand that the latchstring is out. The vacation at home, in fact, gives the opportunity, seldom otherwise obtainable, of a readjustment in the best possible way to the conditions as they are.

CHINA MUCH BESET.

The Chinese government has other troubles than a civil war to perplex and burden its statesmen. The conditions on some frontiers of the Chinese empire are very serious.

Late reports from Mongolia indicate that the tribesmen of its vast deserts and arid plains have been victorious in several engagements with Chinese troops and it is evident that the resources of the Chinese government will be severely taxed to re-establish Chinese authority in that region. If China fails to do this Russian intervention may be expected to follow, with Russian annexation the ultimate result.

In Tibet, also, there has been bloody fighting, with the advantage sometimes on the side of the Tibetans, and there, as in Mongolia, it will not be easy to restore Chinese supremacy. England, in India, is watching events in Tibet as closely as Russia is taking note of every movement, in Mongolia, and in Tibet, as in the larger but less populous land of the Mongols, it is necessary that the Chinese authorities shall act with vigor and success.

Such problems and difficulties taken in connection with a civil war, are extremely dangerous to the Peking government. If President Yuan Shih Kai can overcome the difficulties with which he is beset and clear away the formidable obstacles in his path, he will be entitled to all the power and fame China can ever bestow upon him.

The size of the vote cast on July 22nd at the recall election, is still the subject of considerable unfavorable comment. When it is known that many old time voters were disengaged by failure to have second papers taken out, as required by the new law it is even more surprising than ever. As the aggregate was more than at any previous election the question is where did they all come from? Perhaps a grand jury might find some time to take their attention if they were called to make an investigation and it is certain some of the affidavits filed would prove interesting reading.

There is still a spirit of unrest demonstrated by some of the rank and file of the recallists, mutterings and veiled threats of reprisals, that do not speak well for the future. However the men who lead the battle against Mayor Fathers have been pronounced in their declarations that as far as they were concerned the contest was ended on election day and they will not countenance any violation of faith in the matter.

McGovern is busy these days signing or rejecting the bills passed by the legislature, which has not really adjourned after all. The members have gone home, but their absence from the state capital is only temporary and not permanent.

The question now is whether a man who admits he is a lobbyist needs to care if somebody calls him a blackmailer.

Chicago joins the long list of towns whose mayors have time to attempt to regulate women's clothes.

A SPUR MOMENT

The Diary of a Bonehead. There is a great deal of psychology about bass fishing. I am convinced that it is merely a state of mind.

Bass fishing requires a short pole and a long imagination. If a man has these two and smothers his conscience early in the season, there is no reason why he shouldn't be the champion bass fisherman of the United States.

Yesterday I went bass fishing with Jones when I should have been attending to my business. I had staved Jones off for four years and could think up no more excuse. Jones was the greatest bass fisherman in our town. It wasn't necessary to prove it for he would admit it if anybody asked him and did admit it very frequently whether anybody asked him or not.

Jones never caught a bass that weighed less than five pounds. He said it was a crime to keep a four pound one and always threw them back.

We got up at four o'clock in the morning and caught the last owl car for the depot. We traveled forty-two miles to an inland lake and fished until noon without getting a bite.

At noon Jones upset the boat while reaching for a cat tail and spilled me into the lake, from which I was rescued by my own efforts. We ate a soggy lunch and sat in our damp clothes until evening, when we upset the boat again while trying to row in and lost a fishing outfit that I had paid $18 for the day before.

When we reached the landing, an old man who rented the boat to us, told us that Jones had been a black bass in the lake for twenty years.

While we were away I lost orders for ten cartons of goods to a young son ran the automobile into a telephone pole and caused damage amounting to $325, my stenographer ran away and got married and somebody stole my lawnmower.

Mental bass fishing is the only kind that pays.

Trading at Home. Some unknown poet of passion out in the long grass has come forward with the following bit of timely comment:

"Every time you come to town And start to throw your money around, Say, 'Homemade goods are the goods for me.' Because they spell 'Prosperity.'

A dollar you send to the eastern store, "Good-bye Bill, forevermore!" But the dollar you spend with the homemade sound

Keeps a-comin' and a-comin' and a-comin' round.

The people around are getting wise To the way to beat the catalog guys Who keep what they get and never come 'round With enough of the coin to buy a hound.

"We love our town and we love our state, And here's where we ought to cooperate. If you want health, wealth and a groaning table, Always ask the clerk for the 'home-made' label."

The Pastor's Patent. The following is told of a colored minister. For several Sundays the collection had been rather scant. One morning he rose in the pulpit and said:

"I 'had' found it necessary, on account of the astringency of the hard times and general deficiency of the circulating medium in connection with the church to introduce into my new offering collection box. It is so arranged that half dollar or quarter falls on a red ring, a nickel on a thin noise, a nickel will ring a small bell distinctly heard by the congregation, a suspendah button, my bell-martels, will fall off a pistol, so you will goin' yo'selves accordingly. Let de c'fection now proceed, while I takes off ma hat an' gibs out a hymn."

Little Things. Little chunks of carbon, Little grains of sand, Make an auto engine. Found to beat the band.

Heart to Heart Talks

By JAMES A. EDGERTON

THE APOSTLE OF LIBERTY.

It is not popular to praise Thomas Paine, perhaps the most misunderstood man of modern times.

Yet I am convinced that it is just; and, being so convinced, I will do it.

Thomas Paine was the apostle of liberty in three lands—in his native England, his adopted America and in France, that he loved.

He endangered his own freedom and finally lost it that he might give freedom to all mankind.

An intensely religious man, he yet believed in religious liberty and taught it to an intolerant age that misunderstood his motives and his ideals.

He believed not only in the American and French republics, but in a republic of the world. He set the colonies on fire for independence and heartened their soldiers in the dark days of the Revolution. He helped frame the bill of rights in France. He taught the rights of man in England. His "Age of Reason," which resulted in helping calumny on his name, was written as much against French atheism as it was against what he regarded as superstition in America and England.

This man expressed his faith in God in some of the most beautiful apostrophes in literature and showed a keen appreciation and sympathy with the spirit of the teachings of Jesus of Nazareth, of whose character and moral ideals he spoke in praise.

Perhaps he lacked education, for he was ever a commoner, the son of a staymaker and with only a grammar school training.

Yet few men have ever written in more eloquent or trenchant English.

It has been said that those who come to save mankind are either worshiped as gods or chased as devils. It was poor Paine's misfortune to suffer for the last named fate. Yet the law of compensation operates, and through it he will some day be placed as high as he was before made low, for that is necessary to balance the scales of justice.

Personally I believe him to have been the actual author of the Declaration of Independence, and there is abundant proof to support this view.

At any rate, he was a prophet of liberty and republicanism the world around, and in this age we should not stone our prophets.

Yesterday I went bass fishing with Jones when I should have been attending to my business. I had staved Jones off for four years and could think up no more excuse. Jones was the greatest bass fisherman in our town. It wasn't necessary to prove it for he would admit it if anybody asked him and did admit it very frequently whether anybody asked him or not.

MILWAUKEE TRAIN SERVICE IS GIVEN THOROUGH PROBE

Testimony Taken For Railroad Commission With Hope of Securing Better Accommodations.

In the hope of securing an order from the state railroad commission for the improvement of the morning and evening Milwaukee & Fond du Lac train between Janesville and Milwaukee, testimony was taken before L. E. Gettle, secretary of the commission, at the city hall today. The hearing was conducted as the result of a formal complaint entered by Carroll E. Gray of Whitewater, which had special reference to train No. 22 which leaves Janesville at 7:20 in the morning and is scheduled to arrive in Milwaukee at 10:15.

The examination on the part of the commission was conducted by Attorney A. E. Matheson who has voluntarily interested himself in the case. The St. Paul railroad company was represented by P. C. Eldridge, general superintendent, N. S. Thurber, assistant solicitor, and C. H. Agued, chief dispatcher.

Witnesses were called during the morning session of the hearing: Carroll E. Gray, the complainant; T. O. Howe of Waukesha; Lane of this city; and Oscar Hanson of Whitewater.

In the opinion of all the witnesses examined the reason for frequent delays and alleged failure to run according to schedule time, in the case of the train No. 22, was due to the numerous stops made to take on milk at stations between Whitewater and Milwaukee.

Mr. Lane testified that on three occasions since the first of May of this year he has made the trip to Milwaukee on the train, and on each time the train was over an hour and a half late, arriving in Milwaukee shortly before noon.

"I prefer and do go to Chicago more frequently than to Milwaukee, simply because of this poor service," said Mr. Lane, who declared that in his opinion traffic would be considerable increased to Milwaukee if the company supplied a better morning train out of Janesville.

Aside from the slow time made by this train, the service itself was called into question. Mr. Lane called it a "lazy train" and Mr. Howe and Mr. Gray believed that the company could afford to supply better coaches.

The officials of the company occasionally asked a few questions of the witnesses but rested principally on testimony which they themselves offered at the afternoon session.

Time freight No. 166 which leaves Mineral Point late in the afternoon and arrives in Janesville at about eleven-thirty in the evening, jumped the track near Brownstown last evening at about six-twenty, and ran into the ditch. The train was speeding along at about thirty miles an hour when the accident occurred. The report received at the local station this morning stated that there were seven passengers on the passenger coach on the rear of the train, and that this particular car received such a jar that it turned completely over the passengers being thrown from one end of the car to the other. One man received a severe cut about the bands, while the other passengers received but a terrible shakeup.

The derailment caused considerable delay. The passenger train leaving here in the evening at seven-thirty for Mineral Point had to remain this side of the wreckage and transfer the passengers to the other side onto another train, which was made from Brownstown to Mineral Point.

The train arriving here this morning was two hours late, because of the accident.

There was some surprise about the local station, when it was stated that the rear coach turned turtle without serious injury, and those riding in the rear considered themselves very lucky to escape being killed.

SPORT Snap-Shots

by MORRIS MILLER

Boehling, the Washington south pheasant, won't play. Says Frank Chance. After saying which and arousing some little interest, Chance goes on to explain. "He won't stand up under it. Four out of every five balls he throws are curves, and that'll wear him out sooner than any thing else in the world. Don't tell me how strong he is; that doesn't matter. It'll get him just the same. Nobody can pitch practically the benders and keep up the clip. I simply can't believe it. Oh, I've seen a lot of 'em break into the large show and burn things up curving every ball they throw. And it's all worth the cost of transportation. And his being left home may be the death knell of his future as a player in the big leagues." *

There are a few players in the big leagues who are yet in their teens, quite a lot who are barely out of them and a great many scarcely beyond twenty-five. And yet Bill Dineen of New York declares that a player should be in his prime and at his best when he is beyond thirty. Dineen was discussing the remarkable work old Larry Lajoie is doing this year, despite the fact that he is now entering his seventeenth season in major league ball. "As a rule," said Bill, "the public thinks that a player brought from the minors is nothing but a kid, simply because he is new in the big leagues. This is not always the case—far from it. As a matter of fact many a man who breaks into the majors has been in the bushes for season after season before he could go the faster. Lajoie takes great care of himself and that's why he has been going along. Any player could do almost as well were he willing to look after his physical condition with greater care than many of them do. Pitchers of course, are the exception because eight or ten seasons of wear and tear on the arm will put the strongest of them in the doldrums."

The "games-won-and-lost" column shows the pitching averages have been unmercifully canned in the American League. Wm. Harridge, the secretary of the league, is keeping the official percentages on the earned-runs only and in this way the pitcher's rating will be established. Winning streaks will be recorded as of yore, but they will be unofficial. The earned-run ratings are considered much more just to the pitchers' performances than the won-and-lost series of averaging. An earned run of course brings a run for which the pitcher alone is responsible. Error that may help the scoring of a run will make the tally unequal. Last season both the won-and-lost and the earned-run averages were kept in the American League as in the National, but this season only the earned-run sort are considered.

CITY WILL PURCHASE INDIAN MOTOR-CYCLE

Council Will Probably Close Deal for Machine for Police Department at Meeting Tomorrow.

Contract for a cycle, an Indian motorcycle to the city of Janesville for the use of the police department, will probably be closed by the council at its meeting tomorrow, according to a statement made by Mayor Fathers this morning. Bids submitted by four different dealers were opened on July 1, that of C. H. Cox for an Indian machine, $275.25 with one exception, being the lowest. The others were those of H. P. McDonald, a Harley-Davidson, $285; A. L. Brown Motor Company of Madison, Bi-Bow Motor Company of Madison, Yale, $290; Deluxe, $275. All were for machines with a tandem seat and seven horse power engine. Early delivery is expected. Chief Ranson has not yet designated an officer to ride the machine but when it is put in service automobile and motorcycle speeders will have to take heed.

Ornaments Last Longest.

Ornaments last longer than anything else that man makes. There are brooches and necklaces in museums more than 40 centuries old. Monuments, perhaps, stand second, and houses third. The life of furniture is shorter still. There is very little furniture in England which dates beyond the year 1500. Pictures last longer than furniture, and there are paintings still in fair condition which have weathered six centuries of life.

BUTTERS PITCHING FOR CARDS LOSES HARD FOUGHT GAME

Grocers' Picnic at Yost Yesterday.

Scene of Great Ten Inning Battle.

Moose Winning, 1 to 0.

The Cardinals lost their hardest game of the season yesterday afternoon at Yost Park when Butters was defeated in a ten-inning battle against the Beloit Moose nine by the score of 1 to 0. Blodgett was on the mound for the Beloit bunch, and he got away with some of the luckiest ball playing ever witnessed at Yost Park. He was touched up for ten safe hits, two of them for extra bases, and then he was lucky enough to win his game.

On the other hand Butters allowed his five hits all safe, and the hits were well scattered. In addition he struck out nine Beloiters, and failed to issue one pass. His control was perfect and he had plenty of steam.

It was a hard game to lose, and the Janesville Cards are downhearted on the luck which was against them. This game makes two apiece, and the fifth game will be played off soon, to decide which team is superior.

Butters started the work. On the second ball he struck, Baukin, the first man up, for Beloit, hit a single into left field. Butters tightened up, and Beloit then failed to hit for seven innings.

The Cards connected in the first for two hits off Blodgett. Berger flied to first, Sullivan hit, followed by Stewart who got to first on a fielder's choice.

Sullivan making out at second. Stewart got to third on Heil's two-bagger, but was caught out because he failed to touch second.

Butters started off with a single.

WOMAN'S PAGE

The Evening Chit-Chat

BY RUTH CAMERON

AN INEXPENSIVE REST CURE.

"I had such a restful day," said one woman to another, as they walked home together at nightfall.

The second woman opened her eyes in amazement. "Why can you say that?" she exclaimed. "Just think of all you've told me that you've done. My dear, I should call that a very busy day, instead of a restful one."

"It has been a fairly busy day," answered the first woman, "but it's been restful just the same, and I'll tell you why—I haven't hurried once. I wanted to make another call, but when I found I couldn't get it in without hurrying, I simply gave it up. So, it's been a happy, restful day, because I haven't driven myself."

Isn't that an interesting and suggestive point of view?

In the amount of energy which the average person expends in hurrying, and in worrying lest she won't be somewhere on time, or get something or other done, could be computed. I imagine that it would not be so very much smaller than the total of the energy she puts into actually doing things.

We think we are tired because we have done so much. Half the time it is only because we have tried to do too much.

A young school teacher, who had been over-doing in this way, was advised by her family doctor to take a complete vacation. She told him that was impossible. "Very well," he said, "I'll give you another prescription which will do you nearly as much good if you put the strength of mind to fit it. Keep on working but take life easy, be leisurely; don't let yourself get into a situation which doesn't agree with you; go to bed early and sleep nine and ten hours a night, stay outside a lot; don't hurry and don't worry for the next three months, and you'll come out all right."

The school teacher followed his prescription for three months and proved his prophecy true. That was five years ago and she is still following it in its essential details, and you would hardly recognize the nervous, sickly creature she used to be in the well-poised, healthy woman of today.

Sometimes we wish we could take the expensive rest cures, we read about, and we say that we would if it were not for the prohibitive cost. Here is a rest cure of which the only cost is strength of mind and purpose.

HEART and HOME PROBLEMS

BY MRS. ELIZABETH THOMPSON

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am girl of eighteen.

(1)—Do you think I am too young to go with the boys?

(2)—I am in love with a boy who has gone to another town. He said he was coming home next Xmas. Do you think he likes me? He has been gone six months. I have heard from him only a few times.

(3)—There is another boy that I like. He says he loves me. What would you advise me to do? This boy says he would leave and go somewhere else if it was not for me.

(4)—Is my writing bad?

UNHAPPY KID.

(1)—A girl of eighteen is really not very grown up, and her judgment is not always the best; yet she is beginning to be old enough to have a beau.

(2)—I wouldn't bank on him too much, my dear. He may get more interested in the girls close at hand than the one he left behind him.

(3)—He seems to be fond of you, but if he really loves you and can support a wife, he will ask you to marry him. That is always the sure test of a man's love.

(4)—Not good enough for a girl eighteen years old.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1)—How can I get rid of large pores on my face? I have tried steaming.

(2)—My hair was blonde, but is becoming dark; what will keep it blonde? I wash it once in two weeks.

(3)—How can I get thin?

(4)—What is a good face powder?

(5)—What is good for corns and tired feet?

A LOVER OF THE HEART AND HOME.

(1)—Pat witch hazel on the face several times a day. Steaming is the worst thing you could have done for enlarged pores.

(2)—Put a little baking soda in the water when you wash your hair, and then let it rinse well afterward. Borax will do also. Washing the hair every two weeks is not good for the hair. Once a month is plenty.

GLOOMY.

She was right if you were not engaged to marry her. It strikes me you were a foolish young man to give up a girl who had proved herself so self-respecting and worth having.

DOMESTIC SCIENCE DEPARTMENT

CONDUCTED BY MRS. ALICE GRIFFITHSON.

Sensible Food for Middle Age.

The grown persons has lost much of the reserve power of youth; his mistakes will tell.

What are the mistakes made by the average middle-aged person in choosing his daily food?

Young people have such good digestion, such vitality and power of recovery that they often seem to flourish in spite of mistakes, but the grown person has lost much of the reserve power; his mistakes will tell.

He Omits Breakfast.

On the other hand, one man of sixty says, "I really have not self-control to eat just half as used to, as I know I laugh, but can eat out one meal." This is his solution, and the meal omitted is breakfast. Such a restriction would make some people very unhappy. But let the middle-aged man, if he is to sit in an office all day, be content with fruit, cereal and cream without sugar and toast which has not been soaked with butter in the kitchen, and a cup of coffee if he will, but only one. And his luncheon should not be more than a glass of boiled milk and a sandwich.

Does he really do this?

Does he reluctantly put on all thought of the day's strain, if not, then the best chosen and the most skillfully cooked breakfast may heavily within him till luncheon time.

Must Use Discretion.

But another business man, we will say, has slept well and is in a cheerful frame of mind when he descends to the breakfast table. Here he finds set forth a fragrant cup of coffee, toasted bread, a platter of ham or bacon and eggs, a well-cooked cereal and fruit—an abundant and digestible breakfast, as has been test ed countless times. The hungry youth may eat it from beginning to

THE KITCHEN CABINET

KNOWLEDGE and wisdom, far from being one, have oftentimes no connection. Knowledge dwells in minds attentive to their own. —Wm. Cowper.

DISHES FOR ENTERTAINING.

Food can never be too nice or too dainty to serve to our friends, and when we entertain them it is a pleasure to give them something unusual and pleasing.

Hamburg Cream With Fruit Juice.—Put a cupful each of raspberry and currant juice in a double boiler over the fire. Beat the yolks of nine eggs, add a cup of sugar and beat again; add the juice scalding hot to the eggs and sugar (a little at a time) and return to the boiler to cook until it thickens. Remove from the heat and fold into the mixture the whites of nine eggs beaten stiff. Serve in sherbet glasses with macaroons.

Strawberry Trifle.—Cut strawberries in halves and mix with fine granulated sugar, let stand an hour. Arrange lady fingers log cabin fashion and the sugared berries in the open space. Cover with sweetened whipped cream.

Rhubarb Baked With Figs.—Cover well washed figs with boiling water and cook until the water is nearly evaporated. Cut a pound of rhubarb (unpeeled, if young) into inch pieces, put a layer into a baking dish, sprinkle with a teaspoon of sugar; add a few figs, then a layer of rhubarb until a pound of rhubarb and half a pound of figs have been used. Add a few teaspoonsfuls of hot water and bake, covered in a slow oven, until the rhubarb is tender. Dates or raisins may take the place of figs.

Frozen Boston Pudding.—Grate half a loaf of Boston brown bread that is at least a day old, pour over it a pint of hot cream, allowing it to stand until cold. Prepare a rich boiled custard by scalding a pint of milk and adding three well beaten eggs and two tablespoonsfuls of sugar. Cook until the custard coats the spoon. When cold, add the bread crumbs and half a pint of sweetened whipped cream. Flavor with a few drops of almond extract and turn out onto the freezer. When frozen remove the cream to a chilled flat pudding dish, cover with crumbs of macaroons and bury in ice and salt until serving time.

(4)—A good rice powder is always expensive. You can judge of a powder by its price.

(5)—But the dried feet in salt cold water every day and twice a day when necessary. Rub lemon on the corns until the pain is gone.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a girl eighteen years old. I am corresponding with a fellow twenty-six. When he was here we were put to lovers, yet he showed more love for me than I did for him. This young man thinks lots of my parents; also my parents of him. He is a fellow with good habits and lots of money. He writes to me often and ending his letters he says, "Please write again."

(1)—Should I answer his letters? My parents are willing I should.

(2)—How should I end his letters? W. E. G.

(3)—If you like him as a friend and be writes you friendly letters, I see no harm in answering them in the right spirit, particularly when your parents are willing that you should.

(2)—Just sign yourself, "Cordially, your friend."

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I have been going with a girl about a year. We were always the best of friends. I loved her and I think she loved me, but we quit going together because she refused to kiss me good night. Do you think she was right?

(1)—Pat witch hazel on the face several times a day. Steaming is the worst thing you could have done for enlarged pores.

(2)—Put a little baking soda in the water when you wash your hair, and then let it rinse well afterward. Borax will do also. Washing the hair every two weeks is not good for the hair. Once a month is plenty.

HERE'S A PRETTY SUIT OF SERGE.

Royal Pattern Co.

This pretty suit consists of a coat made out of novelty serge and a skirt made out of plain serge. The front of the coat is finished by straight bands of the material, which extend around the bottom, forming a sash. The skirt drapes at the side beneath a section of the front, which enters the slit below the knee.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

Things Worth Knowing. To remove strawberry stain from delicate colored cloth, such as light blue, soak the goods in a solution of salt and cold water, and the stain will disappear without injuring the color of the cloth.

Star Salad.—Line a serving dish with crisp water cress, and in the center dispose a pint of cold boiled shrimps moistened with mayonnaise dressing. Cut small triangles from thin slices of bread, spread with creamed butter to which a few drops of lemon juice and a dash of paprika has been added and arrange around the shrimp to form a star. This makes a most attractive supper dish.

Eggs.—Boil eggs for each person allow one egg and one salt-mato. Cut a piece from the stem end of the tomato and with a spoon scoop out the center. Sprinkle the cavity with chopped tarragon or a few drops of tarragon vinegar. Break and carefully drop a raw egg into each. Place apart on a buttered platter and bake in a moderate oven until the eggs are set. Serve with or without cream sauce.

Carrots.—Maitre d'Hotel.—Cut a number of scraped carrots in halves lengthwise and boil them in salted water. When they are tender take them out of the water, drain them and place them in a stewpan with a lump of butter, some chopped parsley, pepper, salt and sugar, and squeeze the juice of a lemon over them. Toss them about over a moderate fire for a few minutes and serve on a hot dish.

Welsh Rarebit.—Chop half a pound of American cheese free from the rind; put it into a saucepan with one wineglassful of sherry wine, one teaspoonful of powdered sugar and one and one-half cupfuls of tender bits of sweetened pineapple. Melt the cheese over a low fire until the cheese is melted; then add one well-beaten egg. Continue to stir until the egg begins to set. Pour this over hot buttered toast and serve immediately.

Bread and Butter Pudding.—One loaf of dry bread or its equivalent in dry slices, butter, one-half cup of sugar, three eggs, one quart of milk, one-quarter teaspoonful of salt, raisins.

The young lady who is conscientiously endeavoring to help every one of us to help ourselves, by inducing us to purchase a season ticket for the Chautauqua that is shortly to be held here, is deserving of a vote of thanks from every resident of our city.

Words, we are told, are grains of sand, its results this estimable young woman is working for. To sell a season ticket to every family in this suggest that we all plan to attend the truth of her words. Do I intend meeting this cheery little woman this season? No. She has attended her last Chautauqua. God in His incomprehensible wisdom has saw fit to have her life's sunset while it was yet day. Her little children? To her was given the task to bear, to another the task to rear. Instead of seeing her bright face I will be forced to sit in silent sorrow and look across the green grass folded over her still heart, she lies on the sun-kissed side of the sloping hill.

So you see, the Chautauqua is a common meeting place for us all. I meet old ones, and think kindly of the ones that we have known long since, and lost awhile.

BIG ANNUAL PICNIC DRAWS HUGE CROWD

GROCERS AND BUTCHERS ACHIEVE GREAT SUCCESS IN THEIR ANNUAL OUT-ING—5,000 PRESENT.

PRIZES ARE NUMEROUS

Races Draw Much Attention, Together With Other Features of Day—Dance Was Long One.

Close to five thousand people, mostly at Janesville, were present at Yost Park yesterday, when the annual picnic of the grocers and butchers, which met in such grand success. This crowd is easily the largest that has ever attended one of these picnics and, throughout the day, they were all busily engaged with some form of sport or another.

Excellent transportation service was furnished by the Interurban Company. The early morning cars were crowded and from then until late o'clock in the afternoon, when people began to return home, C. S. Shockley of the Interurban Company handled the management of the cars.

The small struggle between the grocers clerks and proprietors, against the butcher clerks and proprietors, went to the former nine by the score of 4 to 1.

Perhaps the most interest was displayed in the various contests and races, which took place in the afternoon, immediately following the dinner. All of the races were close, to great lead being taken by some of the contestants. Prizes and winners are given below in the same manner in which they took place:

RACES
Foot Race for Grocers' Clerks Only—First prize: 1 premium ham, E. Gillespie; second prize: 1 box Dun Lum cigars, P. Brown.

Foot Race for Butchers' Clerks Only—First prize: 1 14-lb. regular ham, G. Berger; second prize: 25 14-lb. Addison cigars, C. Biers.

Boys' Race—15 years and under—First prize: 1 doz. pks. Biscuits, L. Planter; second prize: 1 doz. Uneda Biscuit, D. Roberts.

Girls' Race—15 years and under—First prize: 1 quart jar fancy preserves, G. Metzinger; second prize: 1 doz. Uneda Biscuit, A. Stevens; third prize: 1 doz. Uneda Biscuit, M. Kohlaff.

Boys' Sack Race—18 years or over—First prize: 50 cigars, D. Kidd; second prize: 1 doz. pks. Excelsio Biscuits, 1 doz. lemon snaps, R. Hartone.

Three Legged Race—First prize: 50 Addison cigars, D. Kidd; second prize: 1 doz. pks. Graham, 1 doz. Ginger snaps, F. Kidd.

Boys' Shoe Race—Slippers and Oxford Race—First prize: 1 doz. Graham crackers, M. Collins; second prize: 1 doz. Uneda Biscuit, M. Davy.

Girls' Shoe Race—First prize: 25 14-lb. Addison cigars, F. Peskel; second prize: 1 doz. Uneda biscuits.

M. Sheridan: the second of Mr. and Mrs. John S. Eggett, Wednesday.

Potato Race for Ladies—First prize: ½ doz. glass jars sliced bacon, Mrs. Eiers; second prize: 3 lbs. Old Time Coffee, Mrs. Taylor.

Three tugs of war were engaged in, and they were all muscle breakers. The first was between the grocers clerks and the butcher clerks, the latter winning. Thomas Farrell, the grocer, became unconscious, due to the heat, and that is largely why the grocers were defeated. Conroy Gardner, Yahn, Cochran, Carr and Rosenberg performed for the butchers, while the grocers had such men as Farrell, Hawthorne, Bugs, Baumgardner, Haine and Dulin on their string.

The proprietors of the grocers and butchers establishments, then engaged in a stiff struggle. The grocers were outclassed and outworned by the butchers, but nevertheless, they won just the same.

The condition of A. Wiggins, who is suffering from a severe attack of heart trouble remains about the same.

Bit of Scientific Information.

If the earth were to revolve seven times faster than it does bodies at the equator would lose their weight and remain stationary in the air without support.

and Cashiers—First prize: 8-lb. box candy, Mrs. J. Enright; second prize: 10 lbs. fancy preserves, Louise Krueger; third prize: 10 lbs. pks. Twinkie tea, Mrs. John Drew.

During the entire day, the Bower City band furnished musical inspiration. Their music was forever welcome to the crowds on the grounds, and some excellent selections were played.

The dance in the evening was an extraordinary feature of the picnic. A huge crowd remained for this pastime, and not until a late hour did the last audience leave for Janesville with the merry crowd.

The committee for the grocers and butchers deserve much credit for the excellent arrangement for the day of fun and excitement. The picnic was the most successful ever held.

COMPENSATION LAW RADICALLY CHANGED

CONTRIBUTORY NEGLIGENCE DEFENSE IS ABOLISHED BY AMENDMENT.

PUNISHMENT IS FIXED

Both Employer and Employee to be Penalized for Breaking Rules of Safety.—Election Reversed.

The amended compensation act became effective June 30. Under the old law contributory negligence of the employee was a defense against liability. By amendment this defense is abolished. Now, wherever it can be shown that the employee is injured by the negligence of his employer, he will be covered under the law, and the employer cannot plead a defense of contributory negligence. Formerly this was the main defense in personal injury actions.

This amendment does not apply to those employers under compensation because that defense did not exist under the old law.

By amendment, made by the present legislature, every employee going to and from his employment in the usual course while on the premises of the employer is deemed to be in the course of his employment, and in case of injury, entitled to compensation.

This amendment is intended to make clear as to when employment begins and ends. It is in accordance with the English rule.

Willful Misconduct. Another amendment takes away the defense of willful misconduct under compensation and substitutes penalty provisions for both employer and employee where they violate the rules of safety. It is presumed that safety will be promoted by this amendment. The workman of course cannot recover for intentionally self-inflicted injuries.

Method of Election Reversed. Beginning September 1, 1913, all employers of four or more persons are deemed to be under the combination act unless prior to that time they file notices of election with the industrial commission not to come under the act. This amendment repeals the former method. On July 1, 1912, 92 percent of the employers were under the act, and by September 1, the commission thinks 80 percent will be under the act.

Contractors. After August 31 an employer under compensation will be liable to pay compensation to the employees of a contractor under him unless the contractor is also under the compensation act and covered by insurance.

The employer may protect himself by requiring his contractor to be under the compensation act, or by requiring a bond of the contractor to save him harmless. This amendment is intended to make sure that the employee will be paid his compensation notwithstanding insolvency of contractors. The workman has no way of protecting himself against insolvent contractors, but the employer easily may protect his workmen.

Policemen and Firemen. Policemen are placed under the protection of the act. Firemen were under the act by law, but now police officers were deemed to be officers and men not so. This provision puts policemen and firemen on a par, but it does not interfere with the pension fund or other methods by which policemen and firemen had additional protection.

Railroad Trainmen. Railroad trainmen are those railroad employees who operate trains. Railroad trainmen do not come under the provisions of the act unless both railroad trainmen and firemen are affirmatively clear to come under it.

When under the act, trainmen are favored by compensation based on a higher maximum wage. This provision recognizes the greater hazard of trainmen.

Railroad Trainmen. After August 31 an employer under compensation will be liable to pay compensation to the employees of a contractor under him unless the contractor is also under the compensation act and covered by insurance.

The workman has no way of protecting himself against insolvent contractors, but the employer easily may protect his workmen.

Employers Permanently Injured. For employees who are totally incapacitated permanently, additional compensation equivalent to two years' earnings may be awarded. This does not apply to a large number of employees because few are so injured. Only four employees were totally incapacitated permanently by injury during 1912.

Schedule. Under the new law a schedule is inserted, fixing certain definite allowances for those injuries that can be easily defined. For instance, the law specifically prescribes that for the loss of an arm compensation shall be paid for 240 weeks, and so on for other limbs, through a definite schedule.

This amendment makes the schedule more certain as easier to understand. Like provisions are found in several other states, but under the schedule larger sums are allowed for serious injuries and smaller sums for minor injuries.

The law goes on the theory that compensation is to take place of loss of wage, and the loss of wage is relatively much higher in case of serious injuries than in minor cases.

The law recognizes that in case of minor injuries where infection follows, incapacity may extend beyond the period fixed within the schedule, and hence it is provided that in case of infection the commission may extend the period named in the schedule.

hardship upon the employer to require insurance, because unless he is financially able to carry his own risk good business practice requires him to carry insurance. If he is financially able he may be exempted by the commission. That, at least, is the commission's reasoning.

Commissioners insuring compensation are required to file their rates with the commission and, thereafter, to write insurance based on such rates without discrimination. This, it is claimed, will bring about a fair method of insurance and do away with any special favors not based on hazard.

Our modern girls are talented in fifty-seven ways: I'm full of admiration to watch their skillful plays. One damsel wears her brother's clothes and at the tennis court convinces all the nifty sport; another drives a motor car with wondrous grace and ease, and runs down a pedestrian and breaks him at the knees; another takes her fountain pen and writes a gripping book; they all are wonders in their way, but mighty few can cook! I read of girls on aeroplanes and girls who practice law, and dentist girls who dig the teeth out of your aching jaws, and preacher girls, and painter girls—and they're doing it well.

They're busy baking loaves of bread as hard as brick or stone; they ruin everything they touch, while heartless husbands groan; they do not know a chicken from a buzzard or a rock; they're great on elocution, but they don't know how to cook. Oh, I am full of sympathy, my good old bosom aches for husbands who must sit there with charred and stringy steaks, who have had dreams of pleasant home and cheerful table-look, and hooked up with the gifted girls who never learned to cook.

WOMAN SUFFERED TEN YEARS

From Nervousness Caused by Female Ills—Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Auburn, N. Y.—"I suffered from nervousness for ten years, and had such organic pains that sometimes I would lie in bed four days at a time, could not eat or sleep and did not want anyone to talk to me or bother me at all. Sometimes I would suffer for seven hours at a time. Different doctors did the best they could for me until four months ago I began giving Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial and now I am in good health."—Mrs. WILLIAM H. GILL, 15 Pleasant Street, Auburn, New York.

Doctor's Daughter Took It.

St. Cloud, Minn.—"I was so run down by overwork and worry that I could not stand it to have my children talk aloud or walk heavy on the floor. One of my friends said, 'Try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, for I know a doctor's daughter here in town who takes it and she would not take it if it were not good.'

"I sent for the Compound at once and kept on taking it until I was all right."—Mrs. BERTHA M. QUICKSTADT, 727 5th Avenue, S., St. Cloud, Minn.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound may be relied upon as the most efficient remedy for female ills. Why don't you try it?

"But," asked Robertson, "even if we do get it tonight, what use can we make of it? The house will be on the final debate of the bill by ten o'clock. By making use of every trick we know we can fix only a few hours' delay at most. What good?"

"What good?" retorted Blake. "Just this: Standish's long suit is morality. A lot of us have had smirches on our names from time to time. He never has. So the clergy are for him and the people swear by him. It's his chief pull with both church and public. Now—if we can get this story, properly authenticated, on the floor of the house tonight, it'll give a lot of men—Gregg, here, for instance—an excuse to swing over to us."

"Oh, we've got him! We've got him!" muttered Robertson once more, his usually quick mind loafing blissfully over the single grand idea. "Yes," amended Van Dyke dryly, "we've got him—if we can get the Woman's name in time. It all depends on that. Without it, our story is worthless. Thus far, it seems, no one knows her name."

"Except Standish," corrected Blake. "What good does that do us? He won't tell."

"What one man knows," returned Blake sententiously, "another can find out."

"And," put in Gregg, lowering his voice, "speaking of 'finding out,' reminds me. That little devil of a telephone girl over there—Do you suppose she could have heard anything we've been saying?"

"If she has a whole pair of ears," answered Blake, sinking his own voice, "she surely could. Especially what I've been saying. For I've been straining my voice to talk loud enough for her to catch what I said, ever since we sat down here."

"The deuce you have?" exclaimed Van Dyke. "What for?"

"For the same reason I've been laying down," returned Blake. "Don't worry over that. A man whose voice is as tired as mine isn't straining that throat unless it's for a good cause."

"And you can leave the finding of the Woman's name to me, too, I guess. Now trot along, all of you. Mark, go in and order dinner. I'll be there in five minutes. I've a couple of things to attend to first."

The group began to drift across the corridor in the direction of the dining-room. Blake detached himself from the rest and started back toward the telephone switchboard. But Tom, noting his father's move, intercepted him. The young fellow's face looked worried and his manner had lost some of its wonted buoyancy.

"Dad," he said.

"Hey?" asked Blake, stopping and turning toward his son.

Reading Tom's face, as he was accustomed by instinct to read every countenance that came into his range of notice, Jim nodded and led the way to the amen corner.

"Now, then," he demanded, half-guyling, half-anxiously, "what's on your mind? Speak up, son. There never yet was a delicate subject that wasn't the better for getting aired."

CHAPTER VI.

"This—this story about Standish"—began Tom uncomfortably; then paused involuntarily as Blake leaned back with a grunt of relief.

"That all?" asked the father. "I was afraid I was going to get another call-down from my wise son on my follies and sins. Honestly, Tom, I don't know how I ever got through the first quarter-century of my life without your holy guidance and correction."

"Is that quite necessary?" said Tom. "I only wanted to ask you—"

"Of course you did. You wanted to ask me some question in politics. And instead of being glad that you are beginning to show an intelligent interest in my affairs at last, I made fun of you. I'm sorry, son. I'm an old crank. Go ahead with your question. You were asking about this Standish story?"

"Yes. I suppose it will give us the fight."

"Looks that way from where I sit," replied Blake. "Such pretty romances have wrecked many a man as strong as Standish—and stronger."

"Oh!" exclaimed Tom, almost shuddering. "I wish you wouldn't use blackmail to win your fight."

"Blackmail?" echoed Blake slowly.

Then he paused. The rugged mask of a face had not changed. But the pupils of the half-shut eyes had suddenly contracted as though a blinding light had been flashed before them. Yet, a second later, when Blake spoke again, there was no trace of pain or resentment in his dry drawing voice.

"Blackmail?" he said once more.

"How about the way Standish dragged up that franchise affair of mine last year? What was that but blackmail?"

"Well," demanded Tom, in the stark mercilessness of youth, "you were stealing the franchise, weren't you, dad?"

"Yes," asserted Blake with a de-lightful absence of all false modesty, "I sure was. And I was doing it neatly, too. Not a ripple, not a kick, till Standish butted in with his meanly reformers and queered the whole job and cost us a half million dollars."

Son, every time I think of that, I want to chase some one with an ax. I don't like awake nights thinking how culling our friend Standish would look with seaweed in his hair and sand under his nails. But I keep that franchise memory and a few others fresh on the ice. And it sure doesn't break my heart to have a chance now of getting back at him."

"But," persisted Tom, "that was a public matter. It doesn't justify you in dragging his private life into the lime-light."

"The deuce it doesn't? Who told you that?"

"My self-respect."

"Oh! I thought maybe you might have got the tip from some reliable source. Go ahead, son. Doesn't justify me, hey?"

"No, dad, if you want truth, it doesn't. It isn't—clean!"

"Clean? Say, son, this is politics. Not a prayer-meeting. You've got in the wrong pew."

"If the right pew justifies dirty work like that," flashed the boy, "I'm glad I have. And I want to stay there. This business of making political capital of a man's dead-and-buried sins is enough to turn the stomach of a camel. A thousand times more so when one considers the Woman."

"Well," queried Blake, in high good humor, as he always was when he could stir up a quarrel between his adored only son and himself. "What about her?"

"Everything. She made a fool of herself. Presumably when she was young. She has probably repented it bitterly, ten thousand times. She may have atoned for what she did. She may even be a wife and mother, now. Respected, loved. All the world and Heaven, besides, to her husband and children. And, just to pass a rotten railroad bill, you are going to drag her out into the glare of the newspaper world and crucify her! You are going to strip from her her husband's love; you are going to make her friends shun her as an outcast; you're throwing black shame on her innocent children's name. You are—"

"Excuse me, son," interrupted Blake. "But I'm not doing a single one of those terribly dramatic things. Standish is doing it—or, rather, he has done it. Not I. Catch the idea? If Standish committed a murder and I found the body, would you call me a murderer? Hey? Well, that's what has happened this time. When Standish took the lady on that little left-handed wedding trip, five years ago in March, he rendered her liable to all that and worse. A man doesn't think of such things at the time. Neither does a woman, I guess. This one sure didn't, or she'd never have thrown over her one hope of safety by jilting him."

"Listen, dad," returned Tom, choking back a hot answer. "Ever since you brought me here into the thick of the fight, you and I haven't agreed about politics. But I've stood with you, through and through. I've worked hard for the party, because I felt I was working for you. But—well—this time I'd rather be working for the other side. Because I believe they're right and we are wrong."

"Well, then," blazed his father, in a dry gust of unwanted wrath, "why don't you work for the other side? Go ahead! It's no great loss to us."

"You know perfectly well why I don't. It's because you are on this side—the wrong side just now."

"Go over to them!" snapped Blake, his rare anger still unsuppressed. "They'd be glad enough to get you. Not that you'd be worth a hoot in hell to them in actual value. But the fact that you're the worthy son of your unworthy blackmailing father would make you welcome. Go ahead! Lord, but I wonder what I ever did in the old days to be punished by having a canting reformer for a son! Well, why don't you go over to them?"

"Blackmail?" echoed Blake slowly. Then he paused. The rugged mask of a face had not changed. Yet, a second later, when Blake spoke again, there was no trace of pain or resentment in his dry drawing voice.

"Let it go at that, dad," laughed Tom.

"Oh, all right. I will, if you like. And you'll stay to dinner?"

"Why, of course," quickly assented Tom.

"That's better," approved Blake. "Now, run in and start with Mark. I'll be with you in a minute or two. And—say—if Mark and I should get to talking politics at dinner—"

"Don't worry," returned Tom, smiling. "I'm getting quite used to my muzze. But Mark won't be as likely to be wrapped up in politics as he usually is. Grace's coming down."

"No!" cried Blake, his face alight with pleasure. "Good for her! When?"

"At eight o'clock. But she didn't bother to mention whether it was eight this evening or eight tomorrow morning. Mark was just going to call her up on long distance
